CITY COUNCIL HOLD SESSION

VOTE TO EXTEND TAX TIME UNTIL JANUARY 28 WITH-OUT PERCENTAGE.

The common council met in regular session Monday night. It was voted to extend the time of paying taxes to Jan. 28, 1922. The city treasurer's office will be open on Saturdays only in January for the collection of taxes. No additional percentage will be added.

Residents of Washtenaw avenue petitioned the council for a sanitary sewer. The matter was referred to the board of public works.

Permission was given A. J. Nulan and H. A. Gilmore to erect brick store buildings on their lots on Washington street.

The expenses of Beyer hospital for the month of November were reported as being $2,597.41, while the receipts were only $1,433.60. The hospital committee was instructed to confer with the hospital board relative to the matter and ask them to curtail on expenditures or the hospital fund would soon be spent. One alderman asked which side of the ledger the balance was on and someone remarked the "opposite side."

A bond of the DeLaval company for water works repairs was referred to the bond committee.

Ben Burbank, the fire warden, recommended that permission be given A. W. Woodbury to erect his 11-stall garage according to his plans with sheet metal sides. The council voted to approve same.

The special assessors filed measurements of assessments made on Wallace boulevard and other streets and a hearing of objections was set for Jan. 3, 1922.

In the matter of the assessment of F. Eugene Baker the council voted to take no action on Baker's petition, giving as their reason it was a matter between the property owners themselves for settlement.

City Manager Older reported that the cost of the sewer on Brower street, asked for by two property owners, would be about $220. It was voted to adopt the report and the date of hearing objections fixed at Jan. 3, 1922.

WAS DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR.

Mrs. M. F. Ehman was hostess to the Friday Afternoon Bridge club at her home, 330 East Cross street, Tuesday afternoon. At 6 o'clock a delightful dinner was served to the husbands and a pleasant evening was enjoyed. Those ladies certainly know how to select and prepare foods that appeal to the inner man, and we'll also say that they are good judges of "smokes." Thanks, ladies, "I" certainly enjoyed it.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB VISIT COUNTY FARM

About 50 members of the Ypsilanti Woman's club went out to the county poor farm Wednesday afternoon to extend Christmas cheer to the inmates there. The following Christmas program was given in the chapel: Two recitations, "The Weaver" and "The Bald Headed Man" by Mrs. Will Foster; a vocal solo, "Come Out, Mr. Sunshine," by Miss Ruth Luscombe; two violin solos by Miss Elenor Maegle, accompanied by Miss Abba Owen; Christmas stories, "An Old Bachelor and a Minister" and "How a Little Girl Entertained the New Minister" by Mrs. Chester Alban; two fancy dances by Miss Helen Foster, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Breining; a reading, "The Ruggles Christmas Dinner Party" by Mrs. J. W. McLain; a vocal solo, "Smiling Through," by Miss Luscombe, and a Christmas reading by Mrs. Mary Deibel.

Delicious refreshments of strawberry ice cream and home-made cakes were served to all. Then each inmate received a book and a Christmas bag containing an apple, an orange, a popcorn ball and candy, and each lady an apron. The club members visited the patients in bed and departed wishing everybody a Merry Christmas.

The party was in charge of the entertainment committee, Mrs. Clifford Goldsmith being the chairman.

THE KIWANIS CLUB HOLD WEEKLY MEETING

The weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club was held Wednesday. Prof. Carl Lindgren, of the Normal college, was a guest and led in the singing.

Prof. Carl Pray, of the Normal, asked for volunteers to help serve the banquet to be given to 189 poor boys and girls of the city at the Masonic temple on Saturday evening by the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs.

ROTARIANS ENJOY CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

At Monday's meeting the Rotarians were treated to a fine chicken dinner, for which Rotarian Renton was responsible. Place cards and souvenirs were at each plate. After the Rotarians had been satisfied and could eat no more Chairman F. H. Nissly of the past presidents took charge of the program and introduced Rev. Elliott, of the Presbyterian church, who told the story of the birth of the Christ child. He portrayed in words a vivid picture of the wonderful event and held the closest attention of his hearers throughout his story.

Prof. Carl Lindgren sang appropriate songs for the occasion, accompanied on the piano by James Breakey.

This was the last meeting until after the holidays.

LOOK OUT FOR COLD SPELL.

The weather man says look out for cold weather in the next few days. This will be good news for the coal dealers. So far this winter people have been very fortunate in having little cold weather, and so far indications point to a light winter. Spring begins March 21, less than three months away.

THREE DINNERS, $15.

The Denton correspondent says that M. M. Read, of the Ypsilanti Savings bank, paid $15 for three dinners at the Ladies' Aid annual fair and dinner. At that we will bet it was worth it, for those Denton ladies certainly know how to get up a good dinner.

STORES WILL BE CLOSED ON MONDAY.

Ypsilanti merchants will observe Monday, as Christmas comes on Sunday this year. So do your shopping on Saturday, to last you over to Tuesday.

SENT TO BOYS' SCHOOL AT LANSING.

Wednesday of last week Chief Connors took Clifford Richardson, the 14-year-old lad who was arrested some time ago for stealing a bicycle and who came to grief in riding down a hill, smashing the machine and injuring himself, to the probate court, where it was thought best to send him to the Boys' school at Lansing.

CENTRAL HIGH HOLD BANQUET

AROUND 150 SERVED—FIFTEEN FOOTBALL PLAYERS RECEIVE THEIR "Y."

John Elliott occupied the station of toastmaster and DeForest Ross gave the invocation. Subjects of short speeches by the faculty and students were as follows: "When the Whistle Blows," Devo Leland; "The Players," Coach Williams; "The Rooter," Jack McLeod; "The Referee," Olin Eckley; "Football," Robert Brown; "On the Sidelines," J. O. Grimes; "The Future Team," Aaron Scoville; "The Goal," DeForest Ross; "The Alumni," Fred Hopkins.

The high school orchestra furnished the music.

SANITARIUM CO. FIGHTS CONDEMNATION ACTION

Officers of the Owen Sanitarium company and the members of the Michigan State college are in Lansing this week threshing out the condemnation proceedings instituted by the college to secure the lands of the proposed sanitarium. The college has been after this property for some time past and made an offer of $50,000 for the property, but $65,000 was the price asked.

The hearing was to have come up Tuesday and was put over to Thursday. At this time it is expected the matter will be settled.

The Sanitarium company feel that an injustice has been done there, inasmuch as they have their project well under way and have spent considerable money; that through these efforts Ypsilanti is practically insured of a million dollar sanitarium. On the other hand the college feels that as long as they had been in the market for this particular piece of property the Sanitarium company should have been sure of their ground before going ahead.

CASE DECIDED IN FAVOR LUMBER COMPANY

Justice Stadtmiller on Wednesday decided the case of the Ypsilanti Lumber and Coal company vs. Walter Herbert in favor of the lumber company, giving them a judgment for the full amount claimed.

The defendant contended that some of the material he bought went back into a house deeded to the company, but the evidence did not sustain this contention in the opinion of the justice, who found that some of the material went into the house of the defendant, Herbert, while other of it was purchased after the date of the deed in question.

TRAIN KILLS AN YPSILANTI MAN

OLIVER BUTLER WAS INSTANTLY KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY FREIGHT.

Saturday afternoon at the Cross street crossing of the Michigan Central railroad Oliver Butler lost his life when he stepped directly in the path of a fast east bound freight. The accident happened about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Butler had just left his son's blacksmith shop with a bag of coal on his shoulder, which he was taking to his home, and in stepping aside to get out of the way of a west bound train he was hit by the other train and his body hurled several feet in the direction of the Dawson elevator. His body was badly mangled and when picked up life was extinct. Chief of Police Connors was called and immediately notified Coroner Burchfield of Ann Arbor. It was not thought necessary to hold an inquest.

Mr. Butler, who was 63 years of age, came to Ypsilanti from Ohio about 10 years ago. He was a good turner by trade and the father of 10 children, five boys and five girls. At the time of his unfortunate death he and his wife were living with their son, John, who conducts a blacksmith shop on Cross street, in the rear of the old Follett house.

Those of the family who survive him are the wife, four sons, John, Oliver, Leo and Samuel, and two daughters, Mrs. Edgar Harcourt and Ruth.

The funeral services were held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the chapel at Highland cemetery.

Mr. Butler was a man well liked by those who knew him, and his wife and children have the sympathy of the entire community.

HERE IS A NEW ONE.

One of our correspondents tell of a "hen shower" given to one of the neighbors who had had the misfortune to have 200 chickens stolen recently. She was showered with 50 hens to start her flock anew. Who knows but this may become one of the fashions of the day. We never heard of a hen shower before but we are for it. The principle is right and the originators of the idea should have a Carnegie medal.

FARMER TRY TO INJURE SHERIFF PACK

Sheriff A. C. Pack stated Tuesday that recently he had occasion to arrest a farmer in the vicinity of Dexter, where he found four barrels of wine, some of which the farmer had been selling. After the raid the man was taken before Judge Sample, where he was sentenced.

In addition to Sheriff Pack there were three other officers with him. The only man that tasted the wine was one of the three who merely wanted to ascertain what the fluid was. He did not even swallow any of the wine, Sheriff Pack stated. In order to get revenge, however, the sheriff says, the man and his family are now circulating the report in and about Dexter that the sheriff and the other officers were all drunk on his, the farmer's, wine.

Anyone who knows Sheriff Pack knows this to be an absolute falsehood, yet there are lots of people who might believe it, just the same as there are in Ypsilanti today certain people who have been hearing about the police being bootleggers. Sheriff Pack stated that this man would be given a chance to prove his statement, and a member of the police department stated Wednesday that he would prosecute anyone circulating malicious stories about him. Too many people are prone to criticize officials when the only grounds they have to base their criticism on is the story of some man who in a spirit of revenge takes this opportunity to get even with the officers by deliberately lying about them. Some men seem to delight in gossip. They stand around on the street corners and peddle every bit of rumor or gossip they hear, not knowing or caring whether or not it is true. If anyone knows of any police officer being in the bootlegging game why do they not make a complaint about it to the prosecuting attorney or sheriff of this county?

YOUNG SCHOOL GIRL HIT BY TRUCK TUESDAY

Tuesday Miss Helen Ashe, a student at the high school, was injured by being struck by a truck as she was crossing Cross street at Washington. As near as can be learned she, in company with some other girls, started across the street in front of a car and did not see the truck until it was close upon them. Miss Ashe attempted to return to the sidewalk, and according to the driver of the truck, slipped and fell against the truck. She received several bruises about the face.

Gurgevitch was used by the defense as a character witness.

TAKE FOUR MEN AND ONE WOMAN

TAKEN IN RAID BY POLICE
WEDNESDAY—TWO PLACES RAIDED.

Four men were arrested Wednesday by the police department, assisted by deputy sheriffs Harry Smith and James Robison and Sergeant George E. Karkeet of the state police. The men under arrest are Joseph and Jerome Eck, who, it is claimed, have been running a "blind pig" at No. 10 West Michigan avenue. Several inmates were taken to headquarters but were released after getting their names and addresses. Among those taken was the wife of Joseph Eck, who was locked up in the detention room until Wednesday evening, when she was released. The other two men arrested were Ed Robbins and Rufus Starks. At the home of Robbins, 310 Harriet street, was found 103 pints of beer, one half gallon of wine and one and a half gallons of alcohol.

Chief of Police Connors has suspected these parties for some time, and finally decided to get a member of the state police to assist. He accordingly wrote to Colonel Roy Vandercook, who sent Sergeant George E. Karkeet here Tuesday. Karkeet, dressed like a bum, went into both places. He purchased a quart of liquor from Eck for $5, and also purchased a quart of moonshine from Ed Robbins, for which he paid $4. With this evidence he secured search warrants from Justice Stadtmiller and promptly at noon Wednesday both places were raided and searched simultaneously. Officers Karkeet, Smith, Vay and Lawrence went to Robbins, while Chief Connors, Deputy Sheriff Robison and Officers Gale and Morey went to the Eck place. The front and rear doors were guarded and two men made the search. All inmates were taken to headquarters.

The officers stated that the liquor at Robbins' looked as though it was made from alcohol, red ink and water. Men who drink this stuff are doomed to certain death.

Chief Connors stated Wednesday that he hopes the circuit judge will sentence all of the men to state's prison if they are found guilty. The payment of a fine is no punishment for men of this type, he stated.

YPSILANTI GRANGE MET LAST SATURDAY

The Ypsilanti Grange met Saturday at the Masonic temple. After the business meeting roll call was had, in which the members responded to the subject, "What would the grange be like if all the members were like me?"

"Holy Night" was sung by Mrs. Carth Beckington.

George Gill Jr., led in the discussion, "Should a Farmer Limit His Crops?" He thought as an organization production could be limited to a certain extent to an advantage, but thought it would not be practical individually.

"Which is the more profitable, raising poultry for market or for eggs?" This discussion was led by Howard Colby. He did not favor the Leghorn hens, notwithstanding they were noted for their egg production, but thought that the larger fowls were more profitable. John Graves was in favor of the Leghorns.

A recitation, "When Winter Comes Again," was given by Ida Thumm and Mrs. N. C. Carpenter gave a reading.

The latest news concerning Ed. Conklin is that he is still on the gain.

Mrs. Russel Trowbridge entertained the L. A. S. of the Free church last Thursday. A splendid dinner was served to about 35 or 40, after which all enjoyed the fine program. The next meeting will be some time in January at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Geer.

Luis J. Kuhl has a team working on the "big ditch."

John Klopp, of Elkhart, Ind., is here on a visit to his sister, Mrs. James Court.

Miss Gladys Shock has returned home from her uncle's, Clarence Shock, where she spent a couple of weeks.

The wind Saturday night blew down the steel windmill on Gotfredson farm No. 3.

Saturday visitors at Russel Trowbridge's were Mr. and Mrs. Summer and M. and Mrs. Smith, of Dearborn, and Mr. and Mrs. James Sherman, of Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Walte, Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Harrison, of Inkster, were there on Sunday.

Arthur Mosher and family were in Ann Arbor shopping Saturday.

Heman Romelhart, of Sharon Hollow, has returned to James Court's to board. He is working on the ditch.

Several of the neighbors helped James Hanon to butcher several large hogs Friday. Fred Nollar delivered them to Ypsilanti for him Saturday. Mr. Hanon's health is very poor, so bad, in fact, that he will be obliged to give up farming. He wants to sell his farm.

A large circle of friends here will be shocked to hear of the sudden death of Hazel Burrell, of Detroit.

She was born April 9, 1898, at Denton and when a very small child came to this neighborhood, where she lived until about two years ago, when they moved to Detroit. Three years ago she graduated from the high school in Ypsilanti, and since that time she has held some very responsible positions in the Dime Savings bank and in the postoffice in Detroit. She had to give up her work because of ill health, but lately had been feeling unusually well, and the day before she died had been down town doing some Christmas shopping. Only a few days ago she made the remark that this would be the happiest Christmas she had known. She was taken ill very suddenly about 11 p. m. and before the doctor, who lived only a block away, could get there she had breathed her last in her father's arms. The funeral is to be held Wednesday at 1 o'clock from the residence at 3345 Wreford avenue, with interment at Denton. Dr. Fruit, pastor of the Grand River Methodist church, of which she was a member, officiated. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noris Burrell, and one sister, Esther, besides numerous other relatives and a host of friends, to whom we extend our sincere sympathy.

Luis J. Kuhl and wife and Fred Nollar and family spent Friday evening with Percy Ellis and family.

Mrs. John Norwood has recovered from her recent illness.

Wm. McFaland has returned to school after an absence of a week because of illness.

La Verne Shock was out of school the forepart of the week nursing a severe cold.

Luis J. Kuhl and family were dinner guests on Sunday at the Ellis home. Mr. Ellis has sold his farm and they are leaving in the near future.

Arthur Mosher and family spent Thursday evening with Russel Trowbridge and family.

Erwin Shock delivered wood to the farm bureau last week.

Stephen Harvey, of Ypsilanti, spent a day or two with Ed. Parks last week.

Douglas, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nollar, was sick all last week.

Mr. A. L. Wilbur left last Tuesday for Toledo to attend the Gleaner bi-annual convention, which was held in that city. He came back to Detroit on Friday and visited relatives until Sunday, when he returned home.

Mrs. Charles Sweitzer, Sr., was called to Ypsilanti Friday on account of the illness of her daughter's husband, Jake Thumm. She returned home Sunday evening.

Glenn Bird is having his share of troubles. A little over a week ago one of his fine registered cows died. She was valued at $1,000.

Sunday evening dogs got in with his flock of sheep and did considerable damage. One of the number is missing and several are severely hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bird were Sunday callers at A. L. Wilbur's.

Merry Christmas to all and a Happy New Year.

PITTSFIELD

Mrs. Roy Austin attended the Riverside Study club Thursday afternoon held at the home of Mrs. Elmer Britton.

The Parent-Teachers' club at Carpenter school will have a supper and Christmas tree at the schoolhouse, Friday evening.

The Begole school will have their Christmas exercises Thursday evening, Dec. 22. Miss Lucille Bonner is the teacher.

The Neighborhood club will give their Christmas party Friday night, Dec. 23.

Miss Myrtle Budd spent Friday in Detroit.

Mr. Lewis Rice was a Detroit visitor Sunday.

Mr. Alfred Jarvis will spend Christmas in South Lyon.

Mrs. Laura Starks, of Highland, Mich., is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Clayton Deake.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

A miscellaneous shower was given Friday evening by Miss Faith Whitman for Miss Mamie Hadley at the latter's home. Twenty guests were present. The time was pleasantly passed by a mock wedding in which the bride-to-be was the bride and Mrs. H. M. Graves acted as the groom. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Bradley. Light refreshments were served.

Miss Hadley, whose marriage will take place in the near future to Roy V. Moore, of Howell, received many gifts, including linens and aluminum.

DISBARRED THREE YEARS.

Real Generosity.

A couple of Yankee deacons were talking of a prominent citizen of whose liberality there had always been considerable difference of opinion. "Well," said Deacon Diggs, "I have always held that Brother Brown was one of the most charitable men in this town. For instance, I have never known him to refuse to lend his plug hat to any body who asked him for it."

By FRANCIS LYNDE

COPYRIGHT BY CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

It didn't help matters out much when Daddy Hiram, chasing me up on one of the days when I was dodging Bullerton, gave me the sealed envelope which my grandfather had left with him. As will be remembered, it was on the night of Bullerton's arrival at the Cinnabar that I had told Daddy and his daughter who I was, and the subject hadn't been again referred to by any of us. But now Daddy, having overtaken me on one of the trails above the mine, sat beside me on a flat rock and we had it out together.

"You knew who I was from the first, Daddy?" I asked.

"Not right plumb at first, no," he qualified. "You see, I didn't know who I was looking for. Always reckoned somebody'd be along, 'f course, but I hadn't had any idea who 'r when."

"I'm afraid I've been a pretty sorry disappointment to you," I muttered. "I have no money and I don't know enough to be any good at the mining game. And that reminds me: my grandfather paid you a regular salary for the caretaking, didn't he?"

"Th-huh."

"That has been discontinued since his death?"

"I reckon so."

"I have a little income of my own; not much, but enough for the way we're living here. It must be understood that I share it with you and Jeanie, so long as I stay with you."

"Ain't no need of your doin' that, Stannie. I got a little stake hid out for a pinch."

In all this, you will notice, there was no word said about Bullerton. We sat in silence for a while, Daddy chewing a spear of grass. After a time he called attention to the envelope which I still held unopened in my hands.

"Don't you want to know what your gran'paw says?" he asked mildly.

At this I slit the end of the envelope. Its contents were a deed in fee simple to the Cinnabar and a note to me, written in Grandfather Jasper's cramped, old-fashioned handwriting. In the note he merely said that he was leaving me a property which had cost him pretty well up to half a million and that he hoped I'd brace up and go to work and make something out of it, adding that if I hadn't been such a hopeless idler all my life he might have considered the propriety of adding an experimental fund to the gift. As it was, I must work out my own salvation—if I were anxious to possess any of that commodity.

I think it was on the fourth day after his arrival that Bullerton cornered me again and again it was in the deserted blacksmith shop.

"Well, Broughton," he began abruptly, seating himself once more upon the empty dynamite box, "I've given you plenty of time to think it over. Where do you stand now?"

"Right exactly where I did in the beginning," I snapped. "I don't want any forty-nine-fifty-one per cent partnership with you; neither that nor any other kind."

"All right," he rejoined, brusquely; "we'll call that phase of it a black number and go on to something else. I'll buy your mine; just as it stands, water and all—and that's what nobody else would do, you'd better believe."

"For how much?"

"For fifty thousand dollars—cash."

"No," I grated. "I don't need a little money that badly."

"Fifty thousand isn't a little; at a good, safe, investment interest it will give you an income of three thousand a year. And that's more than you're getting now out of what your father left you."

"You seem to know a good bit about my private affairs," I growled.

"You said a mouthful, then. I've made it my business to find out about them. There's nothing much to you, Broughton, when you come right down to brass tacks. You had a good education, but you haven't had get-up-and-get enough in you to make any use of it."

"The less you dig in my private garden patch, the better we shall get along," I told him.

He was silent for a moment. He had picked up a bit of iron rod and was tracing hieroglyphic figures with it in the dust of the shop floor. Presently he looked up with a sort of mocking leer.

"Been trying to carry sentimental water on both shoulders, haven't you? I'm telling you right now, Broughton, it's no use. I filed on the little Blue-eyes claim over yonder in Twombly's cabin a long, long time before you ever saw or heard of it."

That remark of his carried things over the edge for me.

"See here, Bullerton," I said, and I suppose I stuck out my jaw at him as people say I do when I'm beginning to feel ugly, "there are limits, and I'll pay you the compliment of assuming that you are not quite a born fool. We are going to leave Miss Twombly out of it; completely and absolutely out of it."

"You may; but I shan't," he grinned back at me. "In point of fact, my reservation.

"Yes," I said, and jumped up and went to her.

"Did you ever hear of such a thing as a bear with a sore head?" she asked, in the tone of a schoolmarm asking the dull boy if he'd ever heard of the letter "A."

"Often," I admitted.

"Well, isn't that the way you've been acting?"

"Haven't I some little cause?"

"Maybe, of course, I'm willing to make some allowances. It does seem provoking that your grandfather should have left things in such a dreadful muddle."

"How much do you know about the muddle?" I asked.

"I know that old Mr. Dudley let, or partly let, a contract for the draining of the mine, to a man who was almost a total stranger to him."

I saw how it was. Bullerton, always readier to talk than a stuck pig is to bleed, had been giving her his own version of things. But I let that part of it go.

"Grandfather Jasper was laboring for the good of my soul. He knew his 'medium,' as the artists say. He wanted to make me work—something that nobody else has ever been able to do."

"Don't you like to work?"

"Why-e-e, I guess I'm like other folk in that respect. I don't mind working if I can pick my job—and my company. I've been having a bully good time hammering around this old bunch of junk with your father. Or I was having one until Satan came also."

"Meaning Mr. Bullerton?"

"Quite so; meaning Mr. Bullerton, christened 'Charles.'"

"Ought I to stay here and listen if you're going to say things about him?"

"Not if you are going to marry him, you shouldn't."

"Well, why shouldn't I marry him if I want to? Hasn't he plenty of money? And haven't I told you that I'd marry for money?"

"Humph!" said I; "when you talk that way you are saying out loud just what Lisette says to herself—only you don't mean it and she does. But tell me how did you get permission to come over here and talk with me?"

"Whose permission—Daddy's?"

"No; Bullerton's, of course."

"I don't have to ask it—yet."

"Not yet, but soon," I grinned. "All things come to him—or her—when she waits. Just the same, you shouldn't have come. It's cruelty to animals. After a man has traveled thousands of miles to sit at the feet of the one girl in the universe, only to find himself elbowed by a brown-whiskered jerk."

"Hush!" she chided. "Can't you ever be serious? You are not sitting at anybody's feet. What are you going to do about the mine?"

"Bullerton offered to unwater the Cinnabar if I'd deed him a bit more than a half interest—and possibly he'd still be willing to do that, which would mean that he'd form a stock company and freeze me out completely when he got good and ready."

"And what is the other way?"

"He offers to buy the mine outright. Just as it stands, for fifty thousand dollars."

"But your grandfather paid nearly half a million for it, didn't he?"

"Even so. But, you see, in the present scrap I'm the under dog. The man you are going to marry has none of the nice little scruples in a business transaction—if you'll permit me to go that far. He even threatens to turn me over to the authorities for stealing that inspection car and getting it smashed."

"Oh, I don't believe he'd do that!" she deprecated.

"It is perfectly right and proper that you shouldn't think so—in the circumstances. Just the same, you'll pardon me if I say that I'm swearing continuously and prayerfully at the circumstances."

"You don't want me to marry money and have good clothes and all the other nice things, and travel and see the world, and all that?"

"No, by Jove! I want you to marry me."

Her laugh was just a funny little gurgle.

"Bluebeard!" she said, just like that. "And you haven't even killed Miss Randle yet! Thank you, ever so much; but I don't want to be one of several. Besides, you haven't any money."

Talk of impasses and impossible situations! What could a man say, or hope to say, to such a girl as that!

"Did you come over here just to torment me?" I rasped.

"Weof!" she shivered, "here comes the bear again!" and then, right smack out of a clear sky: "Kiss me—just once, Stannie-bear."

Did I? She was gasping a bit when she got up rather unsteadily to go back to the cabin across the drump head and wouldn't stay another minute, though I begged and pleaded with her.

"No, indeed, Bluebeard man," she said with that queer little gurgle of a laugh. "I—I think I have found out what I wanted to. Goodby." And then, after I thought she was clean gone, she turned back to say, airily: "Oh, yes; I had almost forgotten what I came over here to tell you. You mustn't sell the Cinnabar, Stannie; not for any price that anybody might offer you. Goodby, again."

Can you beat it? When the good Lord made women He doubtless had many patterns; but I do believe the mold was broken and thrown away after this Jeanie girl had been fashioned.

It is nothing short of wonderful how the sourest grouch can sometimes be banished by a single word. That word "Stannie," you know; she had never called me that before; though her father had been using the familiar handle, western-wise, right along, almost from the day I landed on the Cinnabar Carried.

To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council of the City of Ypsilanti.

We, your Special Assessors, to whom was referred the communication of F. Eugene Baker, relative to the Sewer Assessment of Lat. D., Normal Park Addition. Have had the matter under consideration and would respectfully report as follows:

We measured said Hamilton and Pearl Street Trunk Line Sewer including Wallace Boulevard. The property in question Lat. D., Normal Park Addition was at that time, October 6th, to October 15th inclusive, owned by R. W. Hemphill and was assessed to him. There was a considerable time between that measurement and the filing of same with the City Clerk on account of cost of construction. Said assessment was filed with the Clerk, Feb. 16, 1921 and approved by your Honorable Body March 21, 1921.

We find however upon searching the records to the County Records Office in Ann Arbor, that the said lot, D. Normal Park Addition, was transferred by R. W. Hemphill to F. Eugene Baker under date of October 28, 1920.

We find also that the west part, 50 feet thereof abutting Wallace Boulevard, of lot D. Normal Park Addition, was again transferred by Frank Eugene Baker to Henry R. Scovill, under date of Feb. 23rd, 1921. The above transfers were made but not known by your Special Assessors, one before we filed our report and one after we filed our report to the City Clerk.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Signed,

Further, if improvement is made in what manner will assessment be levied?

WHY WESTERN FRUIT SELLS

President George Hawley of the Michigan Horticultural society offers sound advice to apple growers when he says: "Have the fruit on the bottom of your barrel or package just as it is on the top."

Observation goes to show that most growers have long followed this suggestion. The trouble with

Michigan fruit is of another kind. The apples are as good in the middle or on the bottom as they are on the top, but they are not well enough graded at any point. We refer, of course, to the ordinary run of apples as they are offered. Here and there are orchardists who know their business, who grade and sort and pick and pluck until their offerings are 100 per cent perfect. But the greatest weakness is the lack of careful handling.

We believe it is this one factor which accounts for the plentiful offerings of western apples in every Michigan city. It is certain that the people would not purchase apples that do not begin in flavor or pulp formation with our own wonderful Northern Spies, Baldwins, and a dozen other good varieties, unless there were a convincing reason.

These Oregon and Washington apples cost two or three times as much as Michigan fruit for the most part. A long freight haul and the cost of refrigerator cars part of the year has to be added to the price, making them very expensive. But every apple in the box is the same size as every other apple. The sizes are exact, not relative and approximate, but surprisingly uniform. Every apple in every box is in perfect condition and there is never a wormy one to be found. This indicates first that the trees are sprayed enough to insure against worms. It also indicates that the apples are handled as if they were eggs. Each apple is picked with the greatest care, handled with cloths to prevent bruising and every possible attention given them from the moment they are taken from the trees until they are wrapped with paper and placed side by side in the boxes.

No pouring, no dropping, no bruising is tolerated. The result is that after a ride of nearly 3,000 miles they reach the customer in such condition that they last for months.

With the same attention to classification and grading as to size, the same intelligent care to insure against even the slightest abrasion, Michigan apples would last as long or longer, look as good and taste a hundred times better.

When Michigan apples are offered for sale in as good condition as the western fruit and in as convenient form to handle it will no longer be possible to dispose of the western fruit at a higher price. The Michigan product has to come into competition with western fruit not alone in this state but in all the surrounding state to which Michigan apples are shipped. At present a distinct advantage is being given the western competitor who is disposing of an inferior product because of his greater care and more attractive package.

The remark is constantly made that western apples do not begin with Michigan fruit in quality, but they sell freely, because they have been so handled that they will last longer and the loss from spoilage is almost nothing.

COLLEGE CHRISTMAS FROLIC

Thursday evening occurred the annual Christmas party at the Normal college. This has been a custom for years at the college and the evening is given over to fun and frolic, both the students and faculty taking part. A large Christmas tree, electrically lighted, was placed on the campus, around which appropriate Christmas songs were sung. There was dancing on the walk in front of Pease auditorium and an old fashioned English Christmas celebration in the gymnasium. The affair was an enjoyable one and is looked forward to each year.

ANTICIPATION

The day long looked for through the year
Is getting close at hand;
I hope old Santa Claus will know
Each child throughout the land,
For it would be a sad, sad thing
Should he, perchance, forget
To visit every little one—
And cause a pained regret.

But Christmas is a time of cheer—
Let's turn our thoughts away
And think of happy songs and smiles
That make a happy day.
Let's hope that Santa brings to us
His gifts of dolls and toys,
As he has done so many times
To add to Christmas joys.

— CHARLES FREDERICK WADSWORTH

Did You Ever

put a penny in a chewing-gum machine and then not get any gum because the machine didn't work?

Got cheated and felt provoked, didn't you?

Beware that the same cheating doesn't occur to you when buying pipe for a plumbing job. Exceptional cheapness in price means some sort of "a nigger in the wood pile." Unless you put your money in good, genuine pipe, you're liable to get nothing in return in the way of satisfying service. You lose, not just one cent, but many dollars—for pipe failures are costly.

Good pipe is cheapest in the long run and makes satisfied customers. That's why we sell it.

H. E. VAN DE WALKER.

The December Michigan Pythian largest class ever initiated in has the following to say of one of Ypsilanti's live wires:

Hugh E. Van de Walker, the subject of this sketch, was born in Kalamazoo, Michigan, on July 15, 1876. While his name indicates his Holland ancestry, as a matter of fact "Van," as everybody calls him, is a simon-pure product of the Peninsular state, both of his parents having been born in Michigan and raised here.

The Dutch are supposed to be a phlegmatic race, but they say it is the exception that proves the rule—in any event "Van" is an exception, for he is just about the liveliest live wire that ever zizzled with electric energy.

He was educated in the public schools of Kalamazoo and when only 19 years of age started out to make his way in the world as an employee of the Travelers' Insurance company, and with the exception of about four years, when he tried his fist at the newspaper game, he has been in the life insurance business continuously since the first day.

He removed to Ypsilanti in 1900, and engaged in the insurance and real estate business with Gen. Fred W. Green, who later removed to Ionia and seems to have a life lease of the mayor's job in that city. He organized the Ypsilanti Daily Press, and was for four years the manager of that concern; also, connected with a firm that tried to make the world better and brighter by building smoke consumers for steam boilers. Returned to his first love—the insurance business, and associated himself with the Peoria Life Insurance company, taking the position of state agent, and has made a great record for the company and himself, and is making his living at that job now.

"Van" is a living example of "service"—in fact that might well be his first name. His remarkable ability as an organizer and executive has been made great use of by every kind of a public service organization that inhabits his home town and county, and for holding down jobs that mean a lot of hard work and no cash reward, "Van" holds all the long distance records in this or any other state. In 1917 he was a charter member of the Ypsilanti Rotary club, was elected governor of the 9th district the ensuing year, served as a member of the boys' work committee of the International association, and is now chairman of the international committee on boys' work of the International association. There isn't room enough in this article to enumerate all of his welfare and public service jobs, but just to give an idea of his activities in this line.

He is president of the Ypsilanti Board of Commerce, vice-president of the National Association for Crippled Children, chairman of the Washtenaw County Red Cross, chairman of 9th district committee of Rotarians for Social Welfare of Children, president and organizer of the Ypsilanti Patriotic league, was secretary of the Washtenaw County War board, is a member of the Diocesan council of the Episcopal church for Michigan, is a bank director, and vice-president of the General Discount corporation of Detroit. And yet, whenever they want some effective work done that is for the public good they say "let Van dot it,"—and "Van" does it and does it well.

His Pythian career started in Kalamazoo lodge No. 2 when he was initiated in that lodge on Oct. 13, 1898. When he moved to Ypsilanti in 1900 Queen City lodge was on its last legs, the membership having dwindled to only 20. Only two members has been initiated in four years. He helped to stir things up, and transferred his membership in 1902 and served as C. C. in 1903 and at the end of his term the membership was 170. His good work attracted attention, and in 1904 the writer, who was then grand chancellor, appointed him on the grand chancellor in 1913-14, and credentials. His genial presence and Pythian enthusiasm kept him in the grand lodge, until in 1908 he was elected grand outer guard at Kalamazoo, where he first learned the Pythian lessons. He served as grand chancellor in 1913-14, and with such enthusiasm that the gain during his term was the greatest the domain had ever known, and the

In his domestic history it is written that on Dec. 3, 1902, he was married to Miss Abbie Vought, an Ypsilanti girl; that he has two boys, aged ten and four respectively, and that they give promise of being as live wires as is their dad.

To be ready and willing when people shall ask.
That you jump in and lead in some real welfare task.
To give of your money, your strength and your time,
To help homeless boys and keep them from crime;
To be of real service to your fellow man.

Is building your life work on God's own great plan.
And "Van" is a fellow who does all these things—
And yet—"He's a man"—and has not angel's wings.
